Nor has the "declaration" of the two "Supren Chiefs," that the agents of the United States "threatened ines itable aumexation," &c., more true, as far as I am concerned—loss, in fact, if it be possible for one falsehood to have less truth than another—than that which I have noted. "Annexation" of that conglomeration of es, races, and colors, in the sense intended there, and that the word as understood here, is the last thing with which I would wish to blast the future of my country, or spoil the purity and singleness of that branch of the human family, of which alone are its citizens, and wherein rests the secret of its progress and stability. Mr. Presiient Mora, of Costa Rica, more than once threw out to me an intimation that "annexation" might be desirable, and so did others in Costa Rica, and many in Nicaragua some in sincerity, some as a trap- all under an impression the United States coveted it. All my replies to such suggestions were an endeavor to remove the impression without wounding the susceptibilities of those with whom the conversation was had. The intimate acquaint suce which I made of the principal characters of Costa Rica and Nicaragua, and of their entiments, aspirations, and fears, together with the pretexts why the Cass-Yrrisari treaty was not ratified fifteen nonths ago, and other minor circumst necs, brought to my mind, when the "Belly-contract" and a companying "Declaration" first appeared, absolute conviction that in the person of M. Belly there, and of Sir William Gore Ousley here, Messis. Mora and Masting had positive asurance of European protection, and from the former, as representing personally and positively the Emperor of French, an instigation to the direct insult which the "Declaration" offered to the United States. It is said that that insult has been fully "explained." The "explanation" must be a curiosity both in literature and

THE DEMOCRACY OF CUMBERLAND.

[From the Philadelphia Pennsylvanian of Feb. 18th.] The democratic convention of Cumberland county as-mbled at Carlisle on Tuesday last, and elected Thomas M. Petter, their senator; to Dr. Ald, their member of Con-gress, to Senator Righer, and to Gree, Packer; and the billowine, in solution to Packher Business that the ving, in relation to President Buchanan, the tariff

Remired, That we continue to repose the highest confidence in the ability, honesty, and patriotism of President Buchanan; and award to his administration our most hearty approval. Notwithstanding the fierce assaults tonde upon the President and those associated with him in the administration of the government, the day is not far distant when their course will be applauded by the very men who now condemn them. Every democratic President, not excepting Jefferson, has been subjected to the vile abuse of demagognes, and Mr. Buchanan cannot expect to be made an exception.

Trials of a Public Benefactor, as dissirated in the Duccery of Discreption. By Nathan P. Bloc, M. D. New York: Padney & Russel.

This work, for which we are indebted to the Mo Morrison, of this city, is the autobiography of Dr. W. 7 G. Morton, the undoubted discoverer of the appealant qualities of sulphuric ether, who is well known to many of our congressional and metropolitan readers. For many years the attention of those "whose lot is suffer-ing and pain" has been drawn to this subject, and consequently to the discoverer, yet few know the history of the man who conferred this priceless boon upon hu manity.

early struggles to obtain a professional position, and the gradual manner in which he was led to make the great discovery of producing insensibility to pain. No sooner was it a "fixed fact," than attempts were made to robhim of the honors, and the narration of the persistent manner in which he was opposed exhibits a degree of professional jealousy, personal malice, and desire to make noney at the expense of others, rarely witnessed. Equally necessing is the chronicle of his attempts to obtain a ion of the work will be especially attractive, if not en-ouraging, to all who have private claims before Congress.

The work is well written, and a large number of public documents and letters from distinguished men, in Congress and in the medical profession, corroborate the stateents which it contains. Some of the reflections upo centlemen in the departments are uncalled for, and well known events in Dr. Morton's life are passed over unoticed, but the work will be read with great interest It is a striking proof of the proverb, that " truth is

The Ways and Means of Payment: A full Analysis of the Credit System. By Stephen Colwell. Philadelphia:
J. B. Lippencott & Co.
This large and handsomely-printed volume comprises chapters on money of account, money, coins, bullion, and bullion banks; the credit system, with its various devices of books of account, promissory notes, tills of ex-change, bank notes, bank deposits, credits in account; the payments of the commercial fairs, including copious notices of the banks of England, Scotland, and the United States; clearing-houses, and the relations of those subjects to interest, prices, and the public payments The author evidently considers the Bank of England the type of modern banks of circulation, and he concludes his arduous labors by suggesting an Institution for the regulation of the domestic exchanges of the United States, especially with reference to its bearing upon the operations of the public treasury. Without in any way enlorsing this novel scheme, we commend the book to all interested in the study of financial matters. It contains in the open of chapters, many valuable facts.
